Dear Col. Knight:

On July 29, 2003 at approximately 6:00PM, my wife and I had a blowout on I-95 just south of St Augustine. As you probably know, there is a great deal of road construction occurring on that portion of the highway; and we were forced to pull off on a steeply graded dirt embankment. After two hours and numerous calls to AAA, Officer Mick Whitsel (ID# 1342) of the Florida Highway Patrol came to our rescue. He courteously and efficiently changed the tire which was unusually difficult due to the tilt of the vehicle. I'm sure he would have appreciated a shower when he finished.

Officer Whitsel assured us that this was part of his job; however, I believe he carried out his duties above and beyond what might have ordinarily been expected and he should be commended for exemplary job performance. Incidentally, AAA never arrived.

Sincerely yours,

Ronald J. Cain, DDS, MS
